Discover the vocabulary of learning, confidence and winning – at MaRRS International Spelling Bee

Asia's largest self-motivated learning programme for school children

Across Asia, over 3,00,000 students from over 1,500 schools hone their skills at this word marathon. Now in its eleventh year, it attracts students from Malaysia, Indonesia, Kuwait, UAE and South Africa, apart from 21 Indian states. Soon, we at MaRRS will reach across Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, Myanmar, Bahrain and UK.

Developed and administered by educationists and language experts, it builds up every vital skill for language acquisition: vocabulary, spelling, grammar, word and sentence usage and pronunciation. Focusing on these elements at every level, students undergo a comprehensive evaluation, showing dramatic improvement. The competitive spirit nurtures performance without compulsion; each participant gains from MaRRS' integral training.

The Spelling Bee – the world's most successful spelling competition

Since 11-year-old Frank Neuhauser won the first National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. in 1925, Spelling Bees have been enthralling students, parents and teachers globally. The word 'bee', in this context, means 'a meeting of people for a common cause'. The event is so popular in the USA, that the national finalists meet the President at the White House every year!

Structured for a perfect build-up of skills

MaRRS Spelling Bee is accessible to students from classes 1 to 12, who compete in six categories. The competition progresses from the School Level through the Inter School, State and National Championships towards the International Level.

MaRRS – committed to empowering the child

Expert Observations

"An incredible game through which world-class English seems to be certain in the present day and future global village. It is irresistible to feel that the game has awesome power to help its participants learn and acquire English for their future of local and global challenges. For parents, it may be a faultness of responsibility, for the organisers a baronial activity, but for the children (the participants) an enjoyable game-playing for the future."

Dr. Sallivendra Jaya Raju
Head, Department of Phonetics and Spoken English, The English and Foreign Languages University, Hyderabad

"MaRRS spelling Bee competitions are very interesting and challenging for students. They seem to motivate young children to read a lot and to think about their spellings. This is good in today's technological world where everyone is beginning to use spell check. The competitions also check pronunciation and use of the words in context. I wish MaRRS Spelling Bee success in all its endeavours."

Appreciative Principals

"We have been conducting MaRRS Spelling Bee for two years now and this has helped our learners improve their vocabulary and grammatical skills. The students get motivated when they qualify for higher levels and get duly awarded. Thanks to MaRRS Spelling Bee for encouraging the young learners to learn and achieve more."

Anita Malhotra, Principal
Lotus Valley International School, Gurgaon

"MaRRS Spelling Bee programme does not merely test the children; in fact, it equips and empowers them to be at their best. An excellent exposure for children in formative years to develop the right aptitude and skill in language learning."

Mrs. Taruna Vashisht, Principal
Bhavan Vidyalaya Junior School
Sector-33-D, Chandigarh

"I am privileged to have conducted The MaRRS Spelling Bee Competition for the last six years in our school. The contest has really helped our students enrich, enhance and sharpen their vocabulary skills. Such an interesting and innovative spell test is indeed very challenging and definitely boosts up the confidence in our students."
